A CARD FROM MR. RIVES.

I do not often pay any attention to campaign lies, but my opponents saw fit to go back into ancient history and dig up something that happened eight years ago and to employ such men as Messrs. Jim Allen, Jim Ragsdale and Lem McKee to take alleged copies of an agreement made with certain gentlemen, when they asked me to make the race for the Senate in 1905, out over the County and by making a misstatement of the facts try to make the people believe that I had been untrue to my trust. I had heard some rumors that they were going to do this, and Mr. Jim Ragsdale (commonly called "Judge") seemed to be the leader in it. I requested him to get up the agreement signed by me, and to publish it, so that the public might know the facts, which he promised to do, but as he failed to do so, I published a card in the Hopkinsville papers on July 29, explaining the situation as near as I could. I would have pushed the matter further at the time, but could not believe that my opponent, Mr.
Ira D. Smith, would sanction such a thing and did not wish to do anything detrimental to the success of the Democratic party in November, and knowing that most people knew Mr. Ragsdale well enough not to believe any statement that he might make, I thought it best to let the matter go.

He showed me a copy of the alleged agreement a few days before the election, and I asked him to publish it at that time, which he failed to do.
The part of that agreement that they were complaining of, was, as near as I can remember, as follows:

"That it was agreed if Frank Rives should be elected to the Senate, that the Democratic Committee for the Senatorial District of Hopkins and Christian counties should call a convention after the election to instruct him as to whether he was to vote for Blackburn or Paynter, for the United States Senate and if Mr. James West, who was Chairman of that Committee, should refuse to call the convention, in that event he was to vote for Blackburn." It seems to have been a perfectly plain statement.

Hon. Geo. V. Green was representing Mr. Blackburn's interest in this district. After the election I went to him and told him that we wanted to call the convention and get the instructions. He said that Blackburn's people did not care to have anything to do with it, as it would be some expense and that Blackburn did not want to go into the matter of holding a convention.

Mr. West never refused to call the convention, but it was not called, be-

Dr. Southall Up Again.

cause as I stated Mr. Blackburn's leaders did not wish to call it.

I supposed that they knew enough about the situation in the State to know that my vote would not affect the result either way, and for that reason they did not care to go to the trouble and expense of having instructions from this district. Therefore I was left free to vote as I thought best for my county and district.

The people who are trying to prejudice me before the voters are not against me, because of how I voted for U. S. Senator, but because I voted on the right and moral side of every proposition that came before the Senate, and by so doing got on the black lists of the lobby for certain interests.

While Mr. Green and myself had some personal disagreement, he is an honorable gentleman, and if he were here he would say that this was a correct statement of the facts.

I did not learn until Friday before the election that my opponent was sanctioning this and was sending out copies of this alleged agreement, which I had tried to get them to publish, and I prepared a card in regard to the matter, but it was too late to get it in the papers, and it was too late for me to correct the misstate-ments that were being circulated, so I decided then to publish this statement giving the people the facts, as near as I could, whether I received the nomination or not.

I am glad to state that I have not heard of any of the gentlemen whose names are signed to that agreement making this misstatement of these facts.

I write this card not in any spirit of enmity, but simply for the purpose of letting the people know the facts. As I stated in my card of July 29th, I believe the salvation of our government is publicity, and I have never done a thing in public life that I am not willing for my constituents to know of the facts.

If there are any other matters connected with my conduct in the office of State Senator, that any one wishes to question, I trust they will give the matter the fullest publicity through the channels of our newspapers.

I believe it to be to the best interest of our county that the Democratic ticket be elected this fall, and I am in hopes that the voters will be of the same opinion, and that now the primary is over they will forget their differences and all work together for the good of our ticket.

CHEAPER
COAL RATES

Railroads Will Have To Give Lower Freight Charges On Coal to Hopkinsville.

WILL BE SAVING OF $20,000

Great Victory For The Hopkinsville Business Men's Association.

The following special from Frankfort brought good news to the people of Hopkinsville Thursday:

Reductions in freight rates on coal from Western Kentucky mines to Hopkinsville were ordered today by the State Railroad Commission in the case of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association against the L. & N.

The rate complained of was 75 cents the ton from points averaging 40.1 miles from Hopkinsville. The Hopkinsville people demanded a rate of 30 cents, based on a comparison with a rate of 60 cents a ton to Louisville from mines 140 miles distant. The commission held that neither conditions of sharp competition nor conditions lacking in the element of competition form a fair basis for fixing rates, and ordered the following scale of rates to be put into effect from the mines to Hopkinsville: From points twenty miles distant from Hopkinsville 40 cents the ton; from points thirty miles distant and over twenty miles 50 cents; from points forty miles distant and over thirty 60 cents; from points fifty miles distant and over forty miles 65 cents; from points sixty miles distant and over fifty miles 70 cents; from points seventy miles distant and over sixty miles 75 cents; from points eighty miles distant and over seventy miles 85 cents; from points ninety miles distant and over eighty miles 90 cents; from points 100 miles distant and over ninety miles 95 cents; from points 110 miles distant and over 100 miles 95 cents; from points 120 miles distant and over 110 miles $1; from points over 120 miles distant $1 10.

This movement originated in the H. B. M. A. and was one of the wisest undertakings of that body since its organization. The relief obtained means not only a lower price to consumers of coal in the city and county, but the relief will be permanent. It is estimated that the reduction will be a saving of $20,000 to $30,000 a year to the citizens of Hopkinsville, as other rates are affected by the decision of the Railroad Commission. This one thing accomplished by the H. B. M.
A. is worth all the expense, laying aside personal business and planing for a great public good, places the county and city under lasting obligations to the Association—obligations which will be hard to repay, if at all possible. The Association should see and doubtless will see its opportunities for the general welfare of the people and will take up their work after "the good old summer time" is passed with renewed effort.

The decision of the commission, which was arrived at after long and mature deliberation and thorough investigation, means a reduction on the railroad rate on coal from 75 cents per ton to 50 cents. This decision is not a surprise to those familiar with the status of affairs during the time that intervened between the hearing of the petition and the decision by the Commission.

The railroad company has acted very graciously in the matter and,
so far as we know, have thrown no stumbling blocks in the way, but rather furnished without protest, any facts bearing on the case desired by the petitioners and the commission. The officials of the road having power to act sometime since acknowledged that Hopkinsville

HIGH WIND
LITTLE RAIN

Thursday Night's Storm Followed Several Days High Temperature.

STABLE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Thunder, Lightning, Wind, Rain and Hail Got Mixed Up.

After several days of century temperature and scorching winds, temporary relief was given by the storm which visited the city Thursday night a little before eight o'clock. High wind, rain, some hail, forked lightning, rolls of thunder, a short down pour of rain, all seemed to have gotten mixed up.
The only disappointment was that the rain did not last long enough and after it got through the temperature again soared up among the high figures. Friday morning at 8 o'clock rising to 83 degrees, where it had "showed up" every day in the week at that hour.

Following a streak of forked lightning that seem to cut the firmament in twain, people on the streets noticed a bright light in the West, which proved to be the burning stable of Mat Hill, about five miles out, on the Princeton road. The stable was set on fire by lightning.

Taken altogether the storm was "a big success" and everybody got enough of it except the material part, the rain. The parched earth drank it up as fast as it fell, traces being hardly discernable the next morning.

The clouds were heavy all around the city and the rain was abundant in some sections, especially north of the city. At and around Kelly Station they had a magnificent rain and farmers are hopeful that corn will now come out and make something like half a crop. In other parts of the county, we have been told, time and again, that the corn crop is a failure. Old corn is now selling at $4.50 and meal is $1 per bushel.

Cloud-Burst Near Fairview.

During the storm Thursday night
there was a cloud-burst and a destructive wind storm in the vicinity of Bell's Chapel. Reports are meager. On the farm of M. S. Tandy, a short distance from Fairview, a great number of forest trees were blown down and the rain was so heavy that low places were submerged and crops were washed away in many places.

HALF HOLIDAY OLD

Ancient Workmen Never Labored
Saturday Afternoons.

Medieval Man, Like Moslem of East, Tock Bath in Order to Be Prepared for Worship on Sunday—Legalized in Some States.

The Saturday half holiday is customarily regarded as a modern innovation. Ask any old person and he will tell you that he can remember when all laborers worked on the seventh day of the week just as on every other day—from the blowing of the whistle at seven o'clock in the morning until six o'clock, or later, in the evening. The shortening of the regular working day to eight hours, with freedom on Saturday afternoon, is attributed to the work of the trades unions. While the latter body, in the last few decades, certainly has influenced public opinion and legislation in regard to a shorter working day, it did not propound a new idea, but rather revived the old laws of the fifteenth century.

In the early days of industrial history parliament and the kings, both in England and on the continent, took a very active part in regulating the working hours as well as the wages of their subjects. By doing this, it was believed the king could protect his own interests, in addition to those of the people against unscrupulous employers.

An English statute, made by Henry IV. in the early part of the fifteenth century, fixed the legal hours of the country laborers from five o'clock in the morning until seven o'clock in the evening, from March until September; but, from September until the following March they were only to work from "the springing of the day until the night of the same day." They were always to have half an hour for breakfast and an hour and a half for dinner, with the privilege of a nap, from May until August, and were to work on Saturdays only until noon. Trading in the shops on Sundays and holidays was forbidden.

In medieval times the Saturday half holiday seems to have been almost universal. "Every one must be pleased with his work," says a Gutenberg ordinance, "consequently no one must be overworked." Even Ferdinand I. (1458-94), one of the most ferocious kings who ever sat on the throne of the holy Roman empire, accepted this maxim and ruled that, in the imperial mines, the miners were to work only eight hours a day. The old law also explicitly stated that work after Saturday at noon was to be strictly prohibited and that "a pair of stocks be in every town" that employers who worked their people overtime might be thrust into them. Because there was a Saturday half holiday, however, it must not be thought that this afternoon was given for recreation. Indeed not—it was bathing time for the greater part of the community.

Most barbarians, judged by modern standards, were anything but cleanly in their personal habits. In England, France and Germany bathing was an almost unknown custom until after the crusades. The pilgrims from the east brought home with them ideas of the bath as help in the treatment of disease, and bathrooms were gradually introduced into the hospitals. From the hospitals the idea of bathing spread generally. People who had been treated there saw the value of keeping the body clean in order to resist disease.

By the fifteenth century there was scarcely a large city that did not possess well patronized public bathing establishments, although it was not until the seventeenth century that the Turkish bath was introduced, and not until the eighteenth century that sea bathing, so common among the American Indians, was tried experimentally.

Why Saturday was chosen as bathing time is not difficult to imagine. On Sunday everybody was compelled to go to church, whether he would or not. As the Moslem in the east bathed before entering the mosque, so did the medieval man before entering his church, only he must take his bath on Saturday afternoon in order to be clean the following day. There was even a distribution of bath money to the children whose parents were unable to pay for their baths.

With the introduction of machinery and the rise of a capitalistic class, the old common laws of the lands regarding labor came to be neglected. The craft guilds were abolished by law and their property confiscated. Combination of workmen in any form in England was prohibited until 1781, when it became legalized again. In England industrial conditions during the latter part of the eighteenth century became deplorable. Even the little children worked from five in the morning until nine at night. In these working days of 12, 15 and 18 hours, the Saturday half holiday was forgotten, only to be revived after many years had passed.

Certain states and cities have legislated in favor of a Saturday half holiday. This is true in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Tennessee, Virginia, in the city of New Orleans and in New Castle county, Delaware.

Wife the Chairman.
Miss Watt—Do you belong to any bathing society, Mr. Watkins?
Watkins—Well, a small one. I am married.

LET'S DECORATE

And Give The Fair a Big Send-
Off.

Now that the primary election is a thing of the past, let's all become sane again and think about the approaching Pennycroft Fair and the good of the county and city.

The fair is going to be a big success, even if the corn crop is a failure. Just think of how many other things there are to be shown. Hundreds of them.

It will be the first fair for a quarter of a century. There are thousands of young people who have never been to a county fair and don't know what they are and what they mean. They are going to have an object lesson that they can never forget.

The business men of the city should, and doubtless will, do everything they can to give the fair a big send-off. The best way to do this will be for every business house in the city to be decorated, and there is no reason why flags and bunting should not be used freely about private residences.

The fair people, in connection with the Business Men's Association, can easily arrange for the decoration, and they ought not to put off planning for it too long. Nothing will create a better impression on the thousands of visitors to be here during fair week than to see everybody in holiday attire and flags and bunting in every direction.

Especially should South Main and Virginia streets be not only a blaze of light at night but all the homes should be literally covered with decorations.

Many Thanks.

The successful candidates in the primary election at Henderson last Saturday are deluging their supporters with "thanks" through the city papers. One of the defeated candidates expresses his gratitude and his chagrin at the result in the following classic language:

"Politics is hell, and I don't want any more hell. I am grateful to my friends who stood by me and I have no ill feeling for any one who voted against me and will support the nominee."

First State Primary.

The new way of selecting candidates for office shook the entire State last Saturday. It is questionable whether the primary election is as popular as the secret ballot. Both of them are great for the shrewd politician, and the man who votes had as well stop kicking for they are both here to stay.

Making Slates.

With an entirely new council to run the city for 1913-14 people who don't know very much about what changes may be made, are busy slate making as to who will be elected for Mayor, City Attorney, City Judge, Tax Collector, Chief of Police and City Clerk.

HOW TO BE GENTLE

Vulgar Familiarity Never in Good Form.

Old Englishman's Advice and Warning Against Calling Men and Women
by Christian Names on Short Acquaintance.

When our forefathers spoke of a man's "address" they meant his whole social bearing. Nor was it by mere freak or accident of language that the word thus exchanged a narrower for a wider significance. A man's way of accosting a stranger, or even an acquaintance, or even a friend, reveals a good deal of his character and goes a long way toward distinguishing a gentleman from a boor. "Good manners are easy and free, but a 'free and easy' manner is an abomination. My attention, says a writer in the Manchester (England) Guardian, is invited to the subject by one of those young inquirers who writes as follows:

"I attached no particular importance to the questions until a few weeks ago. . . . And now I would ask what experience has taught you. Is one to call every Tom, Dick and Harry by his Christian name, or plain Brown, Jones and Robinson, prefixed with 'Mr.' according to age? Is one to call every Joan, Jane and Betsy by her Christian name, or merely Miss So-and-So?"

I must not indicate my correspondence by the name of the place in which he dwells, so for the nonce he shall be "Tom Fytton," named after a very attractive hero who suffered from rather similar embarrassments; and to my friend Tom I would at the outset impart a salutary warning which I received very early in life.

"When you once are on terms to call Christian names, you are on terms to quarrel." This somber truth, even if it stood alone, should be a deterrent from premature and needless intimacies. I fancy that Cowper, who had the double sensitiveness of the gentleman and the poet, must have been smarting from some experiences of this sort when he wrote his stanzas on Friendship:

The man who calls you Tom or Jack,
And proves by thumps upon your back
How he esteems your merit,
Is such a friend that one had need
Be very much his friend indeed,
To pardon or to bear it.

And the odd thing is that the men who are thus offensively friendly always seem to imagine that they are making themselves extremely pleasant; they are too blind to see the annoyance which they cause and too thick headed to feel that their clumsiness is resented. Warned by their example, let Tom Fytton confine himself to surnames until he is really sure of his ground; and then, when acquaintance has led to intimacy, he will find that the Christian name slips insensibly and inevitably into its place.

There is no greater error than to mistake vulgar familiarity for "gentlemanlike ease," but there is a familiarity which is not the least vulgar, and "gentlemanly" has no necessary connection with social rank. Some of the truest gentlemen I have ever known have been miners, and I have seen agricultural laborers whose manners no instruction could have mended.

Is Tom to call Joan, Jane and Betsy by their Christian names? No. I cannot say it too often or too plainly. To a man, every woman should be a divinity; and the slightest touch of familiarity or free and easiness is inconsistent with that reverence which should be his instinctive attitude. It is true that my favorite heroine, Dio Vernon, encouraged Frank Osbaldison to set convention at defiance. "Call me Tom Vernon, if you have a mind, but speak to me as you would a friend and companion." But then Dio, with all her charms, was a bit of a holden, and had learnt her manners from her brutal cousins. Frank was a gentleman, as well as a good fellow, declined to take her at her word, and at their final parting (as it seemed) she was still to him "Miss Vernon."

If a forward or conceited youth presumes to be "free and easy" with what he will probably call a "girl," he is likely to receive a snub which will abide with him, to his great advantage, all his life long. So direct familiarity is difficult and dangerous and the bolder generally has sense enough to avoid it. But he compensates himself indirectly by speaking of girls, behind their backs, by their Christian names, though he knows full well that he dare not so call them to their faces. There he shows himself a coward as well as a cad, and Tom Fytton will perhaps find an opportunity of telling him so.

New Use for Old Chairs.

Do not throw away your old chairs. By cutting them down you can make them useful for the front steps. Take a saw and cut off the back legs entirely, and then measure the depth of the step and cut off the front legs so that they will just reach the next lower step. In this way the chairs will fit on the steps, and the fact that they have back rests makes it a pleasure to sit on the steps summer evenings.

Grief and Remorse.

"No," said the stage manager, "you are the heroine. You are supposed to suffer more than anybody else in the play. You must put yourself into a frame of mind which represents grief and remorse."

"I know," replied the leading woman. "I'll try to make myself believe I'm one of the people who paid two dollars to see this play."

SHORT CROP

And Standing Tobacco is Suffering For Want of Rain.

Christmas money may be as shy as it was last year. At a meeting of the county committeemen of the Protective Association Monday all parts of the county were heard from. From reports it was found that only 75 per cent. of a crop was planted and the standing crop has been suffering greatly on account of the drouth. What tobacco is raised this year may not be shut out of the market as it was about Christmas last year, on account of the weather, but there won't so much tobacco on which to realize. But that's too far off to dread now.

New Cottage.

O. T. Davis, the bill board advertising man, is building a handsome cottage on Bryan street, about opposite the Ducker cottage, which was moved from Ninth and Liberty streets when the government demanded possession of the lot bought for a postoffice building.

Formerly Lived Here.

Mrs. Virginus Hutchen, the wife of the veteran journalist of Henderson, died last Monday, aged over 70 years. She is survived by Mr. Hutchen and six children. Mr. Hutchen at one time was editor of one of the newspapers here.

Gospel Meeting.

The Cleveland Avenue Christian church is holding a series of meetings, to continue for fifteen days. The pastor is to preach until Sunday night, when Elder S. H. Hall will be here. Everybody is invited.

A Calamity.
"I was sorry to see Hawkins pack his household goods and move away last Monday."
"What's particularly good about Hawkins?"
"He was the only man in half a dozen blocks that ever opened up one of those ditch holes in the pavement and let the water run off when the street got flooded."

Places for Poets.
"Almost every business now has a poet connected with it."
"So?"
"Yes; the baked bean people use 'em, so do the breakfast food factories. And today I met one working in a real estate office and talking to prospective purchasers about love in a semidetached cottage."

USUAL CONTINGENT.

Quiz—Who were with you on the picnic?
Whiz—The usual contingent. Our sisters and our cousins and the ants.

Dull Business.
The apple man goes down the street And loudly cries his wares; Although his stock is most complete, It seems nobody cares.

His Experience.
"What is your idea of high finance?"
"It is a school of fiction," replied Mr. Dustin Stax, "in which mathematics takes the place of language."

Helped Herself.
Patience—When Will offered to kiss her did she holler for help?
Patience—No; she just helped herself.

Growing in Favor.

The water from the well located on the farm of Luther H. Smithson, near Church Hill, is growing in favor every day. The most obstinate cases of indigestion, constipation and stomach trouble are yielding to the medical qualities of this water by a few days use. Probably half the people who say they have "heart trouble" have nothing but indigestion, sometimes manifestly in an acute form. Try the water from Mr. Smithson's well for a few days and test its virtues for yourself. He delivers it your home at 12½ cents a gallon.

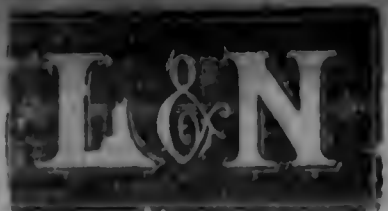

Among the many who are using it with beneficial effects we mention: Flem Clardy, Muncey Moss, Roy Kenner, Gus Breathitt, Jno. C. Hoce, J. W. Lander, Rev. E. W. Barnett, Del. Henderson, John C. Gary. See them. Telephone Coates' drug store or call 633, 5 rings.

Fully Explained.

Every now and again some individual arises to tell us Why We Are, and What We Are, and How We Know Why We Are, and How We Are What We Know, and What We Would Be if We Weren't, and What, Precisely, Areness Is, also Wereness, and Why We Aren't What We Mightn't Have Been if We Weren't, and other simple and entrancing facts. Such an individual is called a philosopher.—Bulletin, Sidney.

PRINCESS MARY MAY FOLLOW HOUNDS SOON

Young Princess Mary's fondness for horsemanship has already been referred to in many publications. Now comes the announcement that she is likely to follow the hounds fairly regularly next season. She has been out with the Garth pack on two or three occasions lately and has greatly enjoyed the experience.

Few are aware that by the time the prince of Wales attains his twenty-first birthday he will be one of the wealthiest unmarried princes in Europe. Ever since the present king of England came to the throne the greater part of the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall has been allowed to accumulate for the benefit of the heir apparent. A sum of more than $400,000 has just been placed in the hands of the king for the ultimate benefit of the prince of Wales, and this will be most carefully invested.

From the time that the king became duke of Cornwall he devoted a large amount of care and thought to the development of the duchy, with the result that the revenues have gradually grown from a little more than $250,000 a year to their present figure, and this despite the fact that large sums have been expended for the improvement of the duchy. The king has just received a sum of $320,000 as the annual revenue of the duchy of Lancaster, and this will likewise be invested.

It is understood that the Princess Royal will not be seen in society for another year. At the same time her daughters, the duchess of Fife and Princess Maud, are not to be debarred from entering into the gayeties of the season, and will be chaperoned by the queen herself and other royal relatives. The king is said to be exceedingly fond of his two young nieces and very much interested in their future lives and welfare.

It was the intention of Queen Alexandra to give her grandchildren a pleasant time this summer, and it was even hinted that there was to be a dance at Marlborough house for them. The tragic death of the king of Greece, however, put a stop to all these pleasurable possibilities, and has been very disconcerting to their royal highnesses themselves, who, of course, had no amusement last season owing to the death of their father, the duke of Fife. Both princesses are very fond of dancing, and they inherit the love of music which characterizes most members of the English royal family.

EX-GOVERNOR IS PURSUED BY LOVELORN GIRLS

Cupid is still giving merry chase to Albert W. Gilchrist, ex-governor of Florida, now a citizen of Waycross, Ga. And he has the active connivance of unmarried females throughout the United States.

Hardly a week passes the former executive does not receive a proposal from some woman. Two more would-be brides are out after the bachelor governor since he left the executive chair.

One of the most recent proposals came from a sixteen-year-old girl in Wisconsin. She had heard of the governor's state of single-blessedness, and thought he might approve of a miss of her inches and style. She sent Governor Gilchrist her latest photograph, and informed him in a delicate but very evident manner that her intentions were really serious. She cautioned the governor to write to her as though they had met before and were old friends, advising him that this was in order to keep her parents from "raising the mischief with her" in case they should run across any of the correspondence.

In his letter of declination to one of the four, who had made him an out-and-out proposal of marriage, Governor Gilchrist told the lady that his campaign expenses had eaten up all of his salary as governor, and that his financial condition was such that he was unable to purchase the necessary hats, pins, ribbons and hair usually needed by a woman.

Her reply politely informed him that she was a woman of means, and amply able to provide her own hair and other feminine trills. She also informed the governor that she was really attracted to him and did not want him to think for a moment that she desired to marry him merely for his money. To prove her assertion, she sent in her letter a list of property she said she owned.

However, the governor has not yet investigated the lady's alleged holdings, and the chances are that unless a great change of mind comes over him he never will do so.

EX-EMPRESS EUGENIE IS AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT

An historic figure is the ex-Empress Eugenie, who is now in her eighty-eighth year. She is now at her villa at Cap Martin, France, and she has given permission to a well-known sculptor to reproduce her features once more in the form of a bust. There are really very few good pictures of the empress in existence. The best known is the simple profile which Winterhalter painted of her for her mother, the Countess of Montijo. This was in 1863. There is also another with a big hat and flowing crinoline, one figure, among several—those of her ladies in waiting, and all at a garden party. The late Mr. Healy, who painted Louis Philippe, and an exhibition of whose pictures was recently made at Chicago, has also a portrait of her.

Mr. Healy was one of the most fashionable American portrait painters of his day and in 1859 and 1860 he visited his native land when in the height of his fame and there are numbers of his works in existence in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington and in the south and west. He also published an interesting book of memoirs of the days of the empire. One of the last pictures of the empress was in a large painting in the possession of the late Dr. Evans of Paris and it represented that gentleman aiding the empress in escaping from the Tuilleries, during the first days of the Commune. As this incident, although never absolutely denied, has been questioned and Dr. Crane, Dr. Evans' assistant, has been said to have been the hero of that occasion, this canvas, although painted by a great master, has not much historical value and the figure of the empress was said to have been copied from one of Winterhalter's studies. However, Dr. Evans is entitled to the benefit of whatever doubt there may be, as he certainly was a factor.

WEARS $363,400 IN GEMS TO GRAND OPERA

Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker, $12,000,000 heiress of the late "Lucky" Baldwin, was the other day called the "Jeweled Lady of the Coast." Adorned with precious stones valued at more than a quarter of a million dollars, beautifully gowned, she created a sensation at the opening night of the grand opera at Los Angeles.

There were diamonds on her gold satia pumps, diamonds on her imported embroidered goldfish net stockings, diamonds on her hands, her ears and her hair, all offset by a $55,000 collar and diamond star drop.

And that was not all which caused the gasp from the opera lovers. Her gorgeous decollete dress of golden satin was slit up on one side to a few inches below the knee.

Mrs. Stocker's collection of jewelry is rated as among the most valuable in the country. She has spared neither time or expense in collecting them and admitted they were the "joy of my existence."

"Diamonds are my joy," said Mrs. Stocker. "I love them and will never cease loving them. I also like to show them. It is vanity, I suppose, but what are they for if not for display?" Mrs. Stocker has been the target of many of the usual sort of begging letters. Whatever she may do in a charitable way is through regular channels, but in order to remove the temptation to thievery Mrs. Stocker has consigned all of her treasures to a strong box in one of Los Angeles' greatest banks.

Table Refuse Made into Stock Food. From the table refuse of Germany's cities of more than 200,000 inhabitants—a total population of 9,000,000—M. Hanson would get a new food for farm stock worth $2,500,000 a year.

In Charlottenburg the food remains are kept separate from other waste, and are collected, ground, pressed, dried and converted into so-called "bread meal."

In a test of more than three months this meal gave good results as a food for milk cows. It has a considerable nutritive value, but the large amount of bones in table waste gives it a high proportion of ash.

Pretty Pass. "No passes accepted on this railroad."

"What's the matter with you, young man? My father left me that pass and he inherited it from his father. Three generations have traveled on that pass."

GIANT SUBMARINES PLANNED.

While the navy department consistently has been extremely reticent concerning its submarines, it has become known that the plans for the three vessels of this type authorized by the last session of congress, and for which bids are about to be asked, contemplate vessels much larger than any now in commission.

Although the pioneer in submarine navigation, the American navy has been outstripped by European engineers in the matter of size, speed and offensive power of under-water craft.

The navy department designers now are planning much larger and more formidable vessels of this type, and some of them prophesy the development of the submarine into a giant battleship that will replace the dreadnaughts in the first line of defense. They even contend these vessels would be able to disappear beneath the surface of the sea to escape a return fire after discharging their great 12-inch rifles at an enemy.

ARMY LOSES STRENGTH.

Increasing difficulty in securing enlistments for the army is becoming so grave that an appeal may be made to congress by the secretary of war to amend the existing enlistment laws. If the army is to be kept up to its normal strength. The reports indicate an unwillingness among the young men of the country to contract away their time for a period as long as seven years, even after it is explained to them that only four of these years must be spent with the colors.

With growing demands for troops for garrison duty in Hawaii and the canal zone and for the recruitment of the existing regiments up to the full strength, this failure of the recruiting service is giving serious concern to army officers.

HAT INDUSTRY STIMULATED.

Consul General Thomas Sammons, stationed at Yokohama, Japan, has reported to the department of commerce that the cutting of queues in China has greatly stimulated the hat industry.

"In 1910 Japan sold to China $59,263 worth of hats," writes Consul Sammons. "In 1912 the sales amounted to $868,713. The great increase in Japan's sales to China resulted from the demand for inexpensive felt hats and cloth caps for the immediate use of the Chinese who have cut their queues."

The demand for hats and caps among Chinese men is greater south of the Yangtze river than in the northern provinces, the manufacturers of this class of Japanese goods being advised that the cutting of the queues was more active in the south than in the north."

Pursued.

He was on the sidewalk in his make-believe automobile, and he was racing the street car. Of course the street car won, but he put up a good fight, anyhow. His automobile was a shiny red affair that he pedaled with his feet; he was all of five years old. Tied to the rear of his racer, some clanging thing jangled along at the end of a long, stout piece of string. As he pedaled he turned his head once in a while, and gazed back at the trailer, an expression of fear on his face.

When his little, fat legs stopped their furious pumping and the machine came to a halt, it was to be seen that the banging, noisy thing tied to the rear was a large dustpan.

"And what's the dustpan for?" he asked him.

"That?" He turned his head and gave it a look; when he saw that it lay at a safe distance his face assumed a rested, peaceful expression. "That," he explained, "is the motor cop."

He Was a Fighting Man.

In a cemetery at Waterford, Erie county, Pennsylvania, is a stone with an interesting epitaph. The stone has lain flat on the ground and was broken in pieces, but the D. A. R. had it patched up and placed on a concrete base, where it is now an object of great interest to visitors. The inscription reads:

"Michael Hare. Born in Armagh county, Ireland, June 10, 1727. Was in the French war and at Braddock's defeat. Served through the Revolutionary war. Was with St. Clair and was scalped at his defeat by the Indians. Died May 3, 1843, aged 115 years eight months and 22 days. Elizabeth, his wife, died April 10, 1843, aged ninety years."

Faith Ill-Defined.

Discussing the lamentable fact that, according to the last census, half the American people never go to church, Canon Hughes Scott said at a dinner in Denver:

"The trouble is, perhaps, that Americans have wrong idea about the church. They think the church wants them to believe a lot of outworn dogma. That is not true.

"Yes, the trouble is that the people define faith as the little girl defied it in school.

"Faith," the little girl said, 'is believing what you know isn't true.'"

German Harvest Laborers Scarce.

Germany has more than sixty-five million people living in an area less than that of Texas, and only five times as great as that of Ohio, but, nevertheless, labor is so scarce in harvest time in many parts of the German empire that about thirty thousand farm "hands," as the American phrase is, go into Germany from Russia and Austria-Hungary every year to help gather the crops.

Constable Winfree Came Near Being Caught By Train.

Constable Thos. S. Winfree had an experience yesterday morning that came near costing him his life. He had gone to the Acme Mills to see a party and when he got to the railroad track he saw a train passing, but thought he could get across the track before the train reached where he was crossing. He did this, but before he could get upon the platform alongside of the track he found himself between it and a slowly moving freight train, which he thought was standing on the side track, next to the mill platform. Mr. Winfree's sight is very defective and had he known the freight was moving at all he would not have attempted to cross the tracks. As it was, he found himself between one of the cars and the platform, with scarcely standing room. Had he been a deep-chested man he would have lost his life, but by standing as straight as he could the cars passed, only tearing out a piece of shirt bosom. He says that hereafter locomotives and trains can have all the room needed and he will take care of number one.

HAD HYDROPHOBIA

Dog With Camping Party Quickly Dispatched.

A terrier belonging to Miss Myrtie Faulkner, of this city, who is a member of a camping party at Huffman's Mill, developed a case of hydrophobia Wednesday night and had to be killed. One of the party captured the dog by throwing a quilt over him and he was taken some distance away from the camp and killed. No one was bitten but the accident caused much excitement among the picnic party.

SUSPECTED PRISONERS

Put In County Jail and Will Have Trial Today.

J. B. Benson and Tom Price, the two men arrested last Tuesday morning, and supposed to be two of the three men who blew up the safe at the postoffice at Crofton last Tuesday morning, were placed in the county jail yesterday morning. A postoffice inspector arrived here yesterday from Crofton. He had a conference with U. S. Commissioner Alvan Clark shortly after arriving, following which the prisoners were taken from the city lock-up and carried to the county jail. The time for hearing before Commissioner Clark is set for today. It is said that Benson's identification is almost certain to be established by a Crofton man who boards railroad men. There are other witnesses to be brought here.

There is a great war in the Old World, and you may read of the extinction of the vast Turkish Empire in Europe, just as a few years ago you read how Spain lost her last foot of soil in America, after having ruled the empire of half the New World.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that is to be found in a first class daily.

FEEDING THE CANAL ZONE

By E. W. PICKARD

SCENE IN EMPLOY

Colon, C. Z.—In writing or talking about the Panama Canal the superlative degree is very likely to be overworked. The canal itself is the biggest thing of the kind ever undertaken; the locks are unequalled in size; the work of the department of sanitation is the most remarkable ever carried out, and so it goes.

But there is one other feature of the building of the canal that calls loudly for the superlative degree—the commissary department and the way in which it has fed the Zone. Not fed it only, either, but largely clothed it and supplied it with household necessities and even luxuries.

The commissary department is a department of the Panama railroad, which is owned by the United States and of which Chairman Goethals is president. As officially stated:

"The commissary department of the Panama railroad is operated by the subsistence department of the Isthmian Canal commission for the purpose of supplying employees of the Panama railroad and Isthmian Canal commission and their families with foodstuffs, wearing apparel and household necessities, and also supplying food for the hotels, hospitals, messes, and kitchens operated by the Isthmian Canal commission and for the United States soldiers and marines located on the Isthmus of Panama, and ships of the United States navy. It is estimated that the department supplies about 70,000 people daily, computing one dependent for each employee.

"The business of the department for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1912, was $6,702,355.68, to transact which it is necessary to carry a stock valued at about $1,000,000."

That sounds decidedly prosaic, but in truth the operations of this great business machine are almost romantic. The vessels of the Panama railroad in unending procession bring to the docks at Cristobal the vast bulk of supplies and as continually these are sent out to the score of stores maintained by the department along the route of the canal and at Porto Bello. Every evening each storekeeper telegraphs to the headquarters in Cristobal the list of supplies of which he is in need, and during the night the cars are loaded. At 3:45 o'clock each morning the long supply train starts out from Colon. It consists of 21 cars, 11 of which are refrigerated, and the food and ice are distributed along the route so that they may be delivered to the quarters of families by 8 o'clock.

In Cristobal is the biggest store of all, and it compares well with the huge department stores of American cities. There may be obtained all kinds of food stuffs, American and European; clothing for men and women, furniture, household wares, supplies for travelers, cigars and cigarettes—indeed almost anything one might call for except intoxicating drinks. Articles from foreign lands, being imported by the government itself, of course pay no duty, and consequently such things as fine English chinaware can be bought there at prices far below those charged in the states. It is said on the Isthmus, and generally believed, that the members of congressional junketing parties which from time to time go down to inspect the canal always carry home with them a lot of this choice porcelain.

At the head of the commissary department is the subsistence officer, Col. Eugene Wilson, whose huge physical bulk is well matched by his great executive ability. It would seem that no better man could possibly have been found for the position, for he has in hand every detail of the immense business and it runs like clockwork. Seldom is a complaint heard from even the most exacting of housewives, and when one is registered it is courteously received and the fault, if one exists, promptly rectified.

"Cleanliness before godliness every time" is Colonel Wilson's motto and though it is not posted on any wall, every employee understands that his job depends primarily on his cleanliness. In Cristobal are the great cold storage plant, bakery, coffee plant, ice plant, ice cream plant, corned beef plant, butter printing plant and laundry, and in every one of them the unwritten rule "be clean" is adhered to with the utmost care. Nowhere, if it can be avoided, is there personal contact with the food, and the numerous and ingenious automatic machines are kept scrupulously clean.

Now let's get back to figures. In order to obtain some idea of the magnitude of the commissary department's operations. Take the cold storage plant first. In its 192,230 cubic feet of refrigerated space are kept constantly on hand meat and vegetable supplies for ten days at least, in some instances much more. Hanging in long rows in the icy cold rooms are the carcasses of 400 hogs and hogs and sheep in due proportion. In other rooms, not so cold, are 150 tons of potatoes, and vast quantities of onions, turnips, beets, carrots, cabbages, yams, celery, tomatoes and other vegetables. In yet other rooms are ten tons of poultry, and elsewhere are boxes of fruit without number. And this enormous supply is daily depleted and daily renewed.

Adjoining the cold storage plant is the bakery, in whose immense ovens are baked each working day about 20,000 loaves of bread, 2,200 rolls and 250 pounds of cake. The coffee department, which roasts and sends out about 300,000 pounds of the roasted berry each year, receives the especial attention of Colonel Wilson, for he is himself a great coffee drinker. He personally makes up the formulas for the blends, and as something of a coffee connoisseur myself, I can testify that he knows what he is about when he does it.

The people of the zone, white and black alike, are very fond of ice cream, and to supply the demand the commissary manufactures about 140,000 gallons a year, of three grades. The first grade is as good ice cream as one can get anywhere, and even the third grade is mighty welcome after a hot day in the Culebra Cut or the Pedro Miguel locks.

Are you tired of figures yet? If not, please consider that the ice plant at Cristobal makes nearly 40,000 tons of ice a year, the corned beef plant has an annual output of about 270,000 pounds, and that almost 335,000 pounds of butter is handled by the butter printing plant, all of the butter being brought from the United States. Then we will move to the laundry. In this spacious building, with its long rows of washing machines and drying and ironing devices, all the laundry work of the Zone, excepting that of the Ancon hospital, is done, and in addition that of all the steamship lines running to Colon except one. "We are now handling," said the manager, "an average of about half a million pieces a month, and in the months when the tourists come in greatest numbers the figures mount to about 800,000."

As will be readily understood, the commissary is able and willing to sell food at very little above cost. Consequently the housewife on the Isthmus can buy at prices that are never above those in the states, and that nearly always are considerably lower.

An important part of the commissary plant is the industrial and experimental laboratory in Cristobal, where all the foods are tested and many things, such as flavoring extracts, are manufactured.

The commissary conducts more than a dozen hotels for white Americans, where good meals are furnished for 30 cents each; a score of mess halls for European laborers, where a day's board costs forty cents, and about twenty-five kitchens for West Indian laborers, where board costs thirty cents a day. Something like a million meals are served each month in these various establishments, for nearly every employee of the commissary eats at a government table. It has been said that no private contractor in the world feeds his employees as well as the Isthmian canal commissary. Very few of the men ever ate better meals than they are getting on the Isthmus, and this is true of the Americans as well as of the Spaniards and West Indians.

No, you cannot avoid the use of the superlative degree in speaking about Colonel Wilson's commissary department.

SPECIAL TO WOMEN

Do you realize the fact that thousands of women are now using

Paxtine
A Soluble Antiseptic Powder

as a remedy for mucous membrane affections, such as sore throat, nasal or pelvic catarrh, inflammation or ulceration, caused by female ills? Women who have been cured say "it is worth its weight in gold." Dissolve in water and apply locally. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. has recommended Paxtine in their private correspondence with women.

For all hygienic and toilet uses it has no equal. Only 50c. a large box at Druggists or sent postpaid on receipt of price.

POSSIBILITY OF LONG LIFE

Discoveries Made by Scientists Tend Always to Stay the Advance of the Grim Reaper.

Trees live to be thousands of years old, crocodiles live to be hundreds and some fish live to be 150. Why, then, should human life be so brief? If there were no fatal or wearing diseases, and men and women took life
as easy as a tortoise or a cypress, what effect would their changed habits have on their length of days?

Metchnikoff, who sent thousands to the buttermilk counter by his saying that a certain element in that drink destroyed some of the germs which hasten old age, seems to think that there is not in human beings a natural or inherent tendency to decay.

But Metchnikoff would not have the scientist aim simply at multiplication of years; the great aim should be not to prolong the age of certain individuals for the sake of making a great showing, but to increase the general length of life to be expected by men and women of thirty years, so that, instead of dying at or before sixty-five years, they may live to be 100 and live in the enjoyment of their facilities.

It would profit us but little if we should live to be as old as Methuselah, if we had to suffer like Job, especially when so few of us have Job's patience.

The present obstacles to the realization of the happy, long-lived race of men and women are said to be the wearing out of the teeth, too great waste of the nerve cells of the brain and spinal cord, the hardening of the arteries, the failure of the gland cells of kidney and liver and the breaking down of certain muscular cells.

To arrest the decay thus caused is the problem that is now engaging the attention of the advanced specialist. Already the scientist has taken a long stride toward the accomplishment of that purpose. He has discovered some of the poisons which, when taken into the human system, injure the sensitive tissues.

All specialists agree that science will yet discover feasible means of vanquishing disease and preventing accidents to the tissues of sensitive organs.

GROWS ALL KINDS OF FRUIT

Production of California County is Unique and Its Boast May Well Be Proud.

One county in California boasts a great variety of fruit products. Large quantities of fine apples, apricots, plums, pears, peaches, nectarines, prunes, oranges, lemons, limes, pome-loes, grapes, pomegranates, olives, almonds, walnuts, berries and melons grow here. Besides these fruits are grown corn and other cereals, alfalfa and all the vegetables, so that the fruit products of the whole world are found in this one county. The raisin

The State of California produces 75 Per Cent of the Grapes Grown in the United States.

grape was first grown here, and the
seedless sultana is largely produced, as are the table grapes of many well known varieties.

Seems to Prove Scholars Theory.

The introduction of reindeer in Alaska has not yet in any degree justified the predictions of those sanguine persons who declared that it would speedily add much to the meat supply of the United States, especially on the Pacific coast. However, the civilizing and stimulating effect of the possession of these animals upon the naturally intelligent and adaptable Eskimos has been well worth while.
It recalls the theories of those scholars and philosophers who have held that the difference between Europe and aboriginal America, in the advancement of human life, was due chiefly to the fact that the former had the services of the horse, which the American Indians lacked until the white men brought that fine animal, but came with it to subdue and slay
the natives.

Optimist's Epitaph.

The Carlsbad invalid has ordinarily a surprisingly robust appearance. He looks strong—scoffers say he has to be, to live through the rigors of the cure. A serious tribute has already been paid to the virtues of Carlsbad waters, so it may be permissible to quote the anecdotes of the light-minded. There is an apocryphal legend of an epitaph in a Carlsbad churchyard:
I was well.
I hoped to be better.
Here I am!
—Harrison Rhodes, in Harper's Magazine for August.

No Need to Worry Yet.

The earth in time will dry up and become as dry and dismal as the moon. At least this is what scientists for the past twenty-five years have been declaring.

And now, present day scientists say
"we should worry." And should we?
Certainly not, for the wise men also tell us that this is not likely to occur for more millions of years than we can count.

Woman Past Help.

Chandler, Okla.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. Ella Flowers says:
"I hardly know how to thank you for the good that Cardui has done me. Before I tried Cardui, I thought I was past help, but after taking it I was relieved at once, and gained at least 10 pounds. Everybody says I look so much better. I am still improving greatly." Many women are completely worn out and discouraged, on account of womanly weakness. Are you? Have you not tried Cardui? It only needs a few doses to convince you that Cardui is just what you need. Try it to-day. It will cure your pains.

Making Vows.

Will some one tell me what to do?
Shall I make more vows and break them, to?

I say "I will not," but still I do;
Been doing this all life through.

Yes, vows I make and vows I break,
Can't keep vows to save my neck—

But, who knows? Strength may arrive some day,

Then all things will come my way.
So, though vows each day I may break,

More vows I will proceed to make;
No crown without struggle and pain,
No victory without trying again.

SHE WANTED SEATS FOR TWO

Old Lady Finally Makes Up Her Mind and Asks: "Are They for Lady and Gentleman?"

A troupe of comedians was playing at a local theater recently. There appeared at the ticket-seller's window a little old colored woman, fairly bristling with importance. She was quite flustered as she asked:

"Is de 75-cent seats in de first balcony?" The slow southern drawl of the pleasant old voice was made more attractive by the fact that she pronounced the last word with accent on the second syllable.

"Yes," said the ticket seller.

"Is dey good seats?"

"Yes," again.

"Is de 50-cent seats in de second balcony and is dey good seats, too?"

Another and more impatient "Yes."
The old woman pondered a few moments, then, with the light of a great resolve in her eyes, said: "Well, I'll tek two of dem 75-cent seats!"

The imperturbable man in the box handed her the tickets as calmly as if such a large sale were a daily occurrence. She took the tickets and asked:
"A dollar an' a half for de two?" her tone indicating a hope of some possible reduction.

"Yes," once more, this time very
gruffly.

Then came the final question: "Is dey for lady and gentleman?"—New York Post.

IN ANCIENT DAYS.

First Jester—The king has been deposed from his throne and he says he is going to make us make a living for him.

Second Jester—Ah! he is going to live on his wits, eh?

Her Explanation.

There were some deficiencies in the early education of Mrs. Donahoe, but she never mentioned them or admitted their existence.

"Will you sign your name here?"
said the young lawyer whom Mrs. Donahoe had asked to draw up a deed transferring a parcel of land to her daughter.

"You sign it yourself an' I'll make me mark," said the old woman quickly.
"Since me eyes gave out I'm not able to write a wurd, young man."

"How do you spell it?" he asked,
pen poised above the proper space.

"Spell it whatever way you please," said Mrs. Donahoe, recklessly. "Since I lost me teeth there's not a word in the wurrld I can spell."—Youth's Companion.

Cause for Worry.

A salesgirl in a department store yawned drowsily as she removed her wraps and started to get in readiness for her day's work.

"Out to a party last night?" inquired
one of the other girls.

"No, but I didn't get much sleep."

"Weren't you feeling well?"

"Yes, but after I had put the light out and jumped into bed I found something round under the covers and I lay awake nearly all night wondering whether it was a nickel or only just a metal button with the hook broken
off."

Method in It.

"Don't you think, dear," began Comfy, "that our next-door neighbors, the Scrubbs, are putting on a great deal too much style, considering the fact that they never know from day to day where the next meal is coming from?"

"Well," replied Mrs. Comfy, "you see, the more style they put on the more likely they are to be invited out to dinner."

Fact.

"And what have you learned in your travels?" asked the sage. "What knowledge have you gained?"
"Well," replied the rolling stone,
"I have discovered that if you want anything well done you must order it rare."

Over the Counter.

"Are these candles fresh, my pretty one?" asked the youth with the sunset socks.

"They are fresh, but not in your class," answered the saleslady with the Titian hair.

Happy Bride.

"Has your daughter's second marriage turned out happily, Dobby?"
queried Hawkins.

"Why—yes, in a way," said Dobbs.
"Mabel sees how bappy she was with her first husband."—Judge.
